Dear Peter -

Thank you for having Jenna as your house guest and all that went along with it. She enjoyed the experience very much. When she first arrived home she was cranky and tired. It took her a couple of days to transition back to her "real" life so we had to wait for the benefits.

Now she is talking alot about the fun she had and is making a sincere effort to eat a healthier diet. Her mood is so affected by food (blood sugar) which I have always known but it is wonderful that someone (you) could show that to her. Parental teaching goes on deaf ears at times in the teens years. Other people are always smarter than parents! ☺

The cell phone came in the mail today. Hope this covers it.

Thanks again -
