Dear Peter,

We returned from NY the other day (drove home to Ohio) and McCallen talked / sang throughout the entire 7hr journey! We attended the performance and were so impressed by all of the children - what a talented group of kids! We were also blown away by McCallen's appearance - her skin looked like porcelain, eyes were shining - she truly was radiant (that's not because I'm her mother) - there is definitely something to be said for the healthy diet that they followed all week. As a matter of fact, she's already looking up tofu recipes and wants to make the hr drive to Trader Joes to shop for organic food. Oh, and she used her own money to buy....a half gallon of soy milk (usually a bag of Skittles) at the grocery store yesterday! She is also walking tall / standing straight! Even though she's a wonderful dancer, we were constantly on her about her posture (she's the tallest in her grade and though height is good thing, it can really cause young girls to be self conscious). However, after one week at your workshop she is walking like a beauty contestant! I know I sound like an infomercial promoting your company but honestly, I knew she would certainly benefit artistically from your workshop, but had I placed a Vegas bet on the other behaviors/ changes that have transpired - I definitely would've lost a lot of money!

Aside from the physical improvements, she just exudes happiness / confidence! She had such a wonderful time and met such lovely people - she's already heard from several girls who attended the program. Oh, and she got a real kick out of you! Ironically, for the first time she wanted to tag along with her grandfather while he purchased his cigars at the local smoke shop! Thank you so much for giving her this unique opportunity - your workshop has made such a positive impact on her life and she will always cherish the week she spent as one of " SKLAR'S STARS "

McCallen is anxious to tell the world about her incredible experience and will be adding to the 'alumni blog' site this week.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Warrick
